Thousands of sick and suffering people are like the poor cripple in the Bible, who had no one to help him down to the life-giving pool before some one else slipped in ahead of him. So many sufferers feel that if they could only get a little help to overcome their extreme weakness they would then be able to regain their coveted health and strength.

It is just these people that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is designed to aid. It is the strong, helping hand for those who are in the extreme of bodily weakness and nervous exhaustion. It promptly tones, nourishes and builds up the entire system. It gives keen appetite, good digestion, pure blood, muscular strength, nerve-force and renewed activity.

"When I first wrote you I was completely discouraged," says Mrs. W. M. Satterly, living at Richford, Tioga Co., N. Y. (P. O. Box 40) in a letter to Dr. Pierce. "I was in pain all the time, could not lie in bed on account of severe, sharp cutting pains in my back and right hip. Had pain all through the lower part of my body and my elbows hurt me so much I could scarcely lift my baby. My skin was dry, harsh and scaly and hung like sacks on my arms. My husband called the doctor, and he said it was weakness, and my age. His medicine did me no good. I kept getting worse and weaker. It seemed I should go crazy. One day I wrote you and received advice. I have taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and now I can lie in bed with some comfort and can do a good day's work."

The most valuable book for both men and women is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A splendid 1008-page volume, with engravings and colored plates. A copy, paper-covered, will be sent to anyone sending twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps.

A PRICELESS RELIC.

THE FAMOUS BLACK STONE OF THE TEMPLE OF MECCA.

How This Treasure of Islam Appears at the Present Day and the Various Theories of Its Origin—Guarded by Mohammedans.

So carefully is the black stone of the temple of Mecca guarded, even to this day, that the accounts given by different writers as to the nature and appearance of the black stone exhibit some considerable variations, for orthodox Mussulmans cannot be prevailed upon to give a straightforward description of it, and mere adventurers, like the several European hadjis (Burckhardt, Burton and the others) could only gratify their intelligent curiosity by stealthy investigations. Detection in the act of pursuing such investigation would have cost the travelers their lives, in pursuance (as Mohammedans suppose) of the law of the prophet. Your faithful Mussulman cannot understand that any other motive than worship should lead any one to visit Mecca.

The Mohammedans believe that this famous stone was brought down from heaven by angels. It is set in the wall of the Caaba, which stands within the great colonnade. The stone is four feet nine inches from the ground and is kissed and touched with great veneration by every pilgrim to Mecca.

Mr. Bate mentions what intelligent travelers have recorded concerning the nature of the black stone. One of them tells us that it is undoubtedly a large aerolite—an opinion which scarcely harmonizes with its reputed quality of floating in water, since aerolites usually contain a large percentage of heavy, metallic matter, such as iron pyrites.

Another traveler reports that it looks like a piece of lava, containing small extraneous particles of some white and yellowish substance.

Still another of these authorities affirms that it is a fragment of volcanic basalt, sprinkled throughout its surface with small, pointed, colored crystals and varied with felspar upon a dark ground, like coal, excepting one of its protuberances, which happens to be a little reddish.

Others, again, claiming an equal title to exact knowledge, give it as their opinion that it is nothing else than an ordinary piece of stone from quarries in which the Meccan territory abounds. These last mentioned travelers, however, appear to overlook the circumstance that this opinion of theirs does not take due cognizance of that property of the stone to which we have just alluded and also the circumstance that the only kind of stone yielded by the Meccan quarries is a sort of gray granite.

Not so difficult is it to form an idea as to its size and present appearance. In form it is an irregular oval, the inequality of its two longer sides imparting to it a somewhat semicircular appearance. It measures about 6 inches in height and 8 in breadth, the diameter on its lower and wider side being 8½ inches. The surface is protuberant and somewhat knobby or undulating and has the appearance of being composed of a number of smaller stones of different sizes and shapes, securely fitted together with cement and perfectly smooth.

Its appearance is as though the original piece of stone had been broken to pieces by a violent blow and then repaired. And, as a matter of fact, this appears to be the true explanation of this irregularity of the surface, for it is recorded by the Arabian historians of the Caaba that in the year 413 of the Hajira an emissary of a certain Egyptian khalifa, known as "the Mad Khalifa Hakim," shattered it to pieces by a stroke of a club, and they relate that after this event the pieces and even the dust also were carefully restored and the fragments cemented together.

The protuberances mentioned are 12 or 15 in number and are such as to impart to the surface of the stone a muscular or pebbly appearance. Near the middle there is a hollow which reaches to about as much as two inches below the outer edge of the stone and is of a kind to suggest to the visitor the surmise that one of the protuberances may have been removed.

The color of the surface of the relic is at the present time a deep reddish brown, or, as some have described it, a metallic black, and, notwithstanding the polished appearance imparted to it by the constant touching of unnumbered myriads of devotees, it yet bears on its undulating surface what appear to be evident marks of volcanic origin.

These muscular protuberances, however, are attributed by the Moslem authorities to the incessant osculations and rubbings of the faithful. The smoothness may perhaps be attributable to this cause, but the obviously fractured and pebbly appearance is not accounted for in this way.

Brides and Wet Weather.

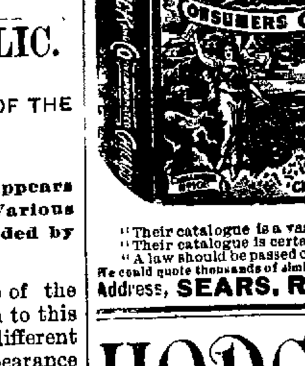

A Breton bride rather likes to have a wet wedding; it is held to signify that all her tears are now shed and that she will therefore have a happy married life. I know of no similar belief in the British isles.

The Erza of Simbirsk call the day before the wedding the weeping day, and the bride and her girl friends weep all they can, with the idea, it would seem, of getting the mourning of life over so that only joy may remain.

The Badagas of the Neilgherries attain the same end by sousing the bride with water. Some Greek tribes have a similar belief in the virtue of a drenching bringing good fortune.

STRIKE AT THE ROOT OF THE EVIL

Our esteemed contemporary, the Reno JOURNAL, while agreeing with us in the main, disagrees in our statement that the efforts of the State press were being misdirected in advertising the undoubted resources of the State. It was not the intention of the article to discourage State advertising, but to point out that in order to bring about the desired results, it was necessary to demonstrate to capital that these resources can be made available—a promise which, under present conditions, we cannot fulfill. It is a known fact that when freight is landed in Ogden from Nevada, it can be transported across the continent for an amount equal to that now charged to carry it from Elko to Ogden, a distance of 300 miles. The same rates apply to all imports. With the same opportunities which exist in other States where the industries are not smothered by this "all the traffic will bear" policy, one sale of a mining property, such as are known to exist here in almost countless numbers, would do more to advertise the resources and possibilities of the State, than would columns of well-written articles. We hold that capital fully understands the difficulties which confronts the investor in this State. Not an expert visits a district but can tell at a glance what ails the country, and their investigations are confined to determining what will be left after the Southern Pacific has received its share. We have been told time and again by these men that if Tuscarora properties were located in Colorado, for example, they would be worth millions and the district would at once be tapped by two or more railroad lines, each competing for the trade that would result, but here the outrageous charges for transportation of supplies render them absolutely valuless.

We know the cause for this state of affairs. Let us turn our attention to their correction. It is a difficult task, we admit. The people seem apathetic and the railroad forces are strongly entrenched, and for the sake of an advantage over competitors some of our leading business men are truckling to the corporation in return for the reduced rates which should be accorded to all. There is also to fight a horde of small fry politicians and would-be office holders who, for the sake of the gleanings, will turn the entire State over to the greed of the Southern Pacific. Once the people are awakened, we believe an organization can be effected which will down boss rule in this State and then Nevada will take her proper place as a contributor to the world's markets, but at present we must get along as best we can. Already the agent of the railroad is traveling from one point to another over the State repairing the breaks in his network made by the futile attempts of a few last fall to deliver the State from his rule, and we are told by his henchmen that next year he will be prepared to outwit any force which may be brought against him—not by numbers, but by organization. The people fully recognize that he is scheming while they are sleeping, but once aroused to a full knowledge of the net which has been woven around them there will be no difficulty in check-mating his deep laid plans. To this end the State press should devote itself to exposing his methods so far as possible, and by the election of a legislature free from his contaminating influence, enact some wholesome and effective laws that will be alike just to the railroad and the people.—Times-Review.

AFRAID OF WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN.

The San Francisco Bulletin is alarmed because the maintainance of the gold standard under the present law depends really upon a ruling of the Treasury department, that the creditor shall be given the right to choose the kind of money he would receive in satisfaction of his debt. It says, "it is certainly desirable that there should be an agreement upon this important matter between Congress and the Treasury Department."

"If," says the Bulletin, "we should happen to have a Secretary of the Treasury who would rule that the debtor should have the right of choice, demands upon the Treasury would thereby become payable in silver dollars."

That is the entire Republican financial creed in a nutshell. Everything for the creditor, and less than nothing for the debtor class. The Bulletin thinks the Secretary's ruling should be sanctioned by law. But why leave it to the option of the Secretary at all? If silver and gold were made equal, there would be no clash between the one who pays and the one who receives the money, and justice would be done to both. But that is exactly what the gold standard folks don't want. They want to fasten the single standard so firmly upon the people that "if we should happen to have" a Secretary of the Treasury who, realizing that the debtor as well as the creditors has some rights that should be respected, he would be powerless to deal out even-handed justice to both classes.

OF those 4,000 places which have been taken from the civil service list, some 3,333 would go to Ohioans, were it not for the fact nearly every Buckeye "patriot" has been provided for.

WHY shouldn't Alger aspire to wear the Senatorial toga, that has graced the forms of Hanna, Quay and Stewart? What a daisy of a quartette!

INERT CONTENTMENT.

A 'Plaint from an Elko Newspaper.

Some time ago the Independent complained that the business men of Elko were hard to arouse to a sense of the importance of following the example of Reno and Carson by organizing a Board of Trade or Improvement club for the benefit of their own section and the State at large. The JOURNAL advised the Independent to keep stirring them up, as did the Gazette and this paper, the business men of Reno, until finally the end was accomplished, to which brother Booher replies with the following wail of discouragement:

The JOURNAL is right in its conclusions but the Independent is afraid the case is hopeless. Elko's business men seem to be content with present conditions. They are smothered with dust in the summer and wade through mud and slush in the winter to get to their places of business. They seem to enjoy these conditions and might be unhappy without them. The Independent hopes a change will come over them in the near future and that Elko will yet be the prettiest town in the State.

The JOURNAL can only repeat its advice to keep pegging away and the dust, mud and slush contentment will give way to a spout of enterprise which will exchange those conditions for others more conducive to comfort and permanent prosperity. The Reno organization was only inaugurated a few weeks ago and has already well under way a number of projects which will result in favorable changes in local conditions, which will serve as an object lesson which our Elko contemporary can use effectually in arousing the dormant spirit of its sluggish neighbors and patrons.

Favorable Comparison.

We notice that most of our California exchanges contain lists of three or four pages of delinquent taxpayers, while in Nevada the lists seldom exceed five or six names. This speaks well for the Silver as compared with the Golden State.

AN INDIAN PETER FUNK.

How an Old Piute Plays the Bogus Jewelry Racket on Unsuspecting Renoites.

An old half paralytic and apparently half idiotic Piute, has for several months been working a neat little confidence game in Reno and has succeeded in extracting a good many halves and quarters from the purses of guileless Riversiders, mostly of the female persuasion. This is his modus operandi. He goes to the back door of a dwelling, where he is generally encountered by the lady of the house or some other female member of the family. He produces a flashy imitation diamond ring which he says he found in the street or on the sidewalk near the house, and inquires with apparent earnestness and sincerity if the lady knows to whom it belongs. He usually urges his proposed victim to accompany him to the exact spot, only a few yards away, where the treasure was found. He has no difficulty in finding the place or the identical leaf or pebble from under which the brilliant protruded when his eyes encountered its dazzling rays. After considerable circumlocutory diplomacy, the designing child of the forest approaches by easy stages to the business point, which is a proposition of "heap four bits" for the glittering prize.

Oftener than not the offer is accepted and the delighted purchaser hies herself to the nearest jeweler, where her exhuberant spirits are zeroed by the information that her sparkling gem is worth a trifle less than its weight in window glass, while the value of the setting can be estimated by the latest market quotations of copper and zinc.

The old rascal plays his part as skillfully and smoothly as the most accomplished bunko sharp, and has worked his game in a manner which proves conclusively the high standard of civilization that can be attained by the red man if he diligently studies and practices the rascalities of the pale faces.

BREVITIES.

On Sunday afternoon the borax works at Rhodes' Marsh in Esmeralda county were totally destroyed by fire. Loss $10,000. The property was partly owned by the V. & T. Railroad Company.

Henry Riter is making extensive improvements at the Elite saloon—big plate glass mirrors, fine paintings and all of the decorations and appointments of a first class metropolitan resort.

A lively contest is going on at Truckee in the choice of a young lady to represent the Goddess of Liberty on the Fourth, who is to be elected by popular vote—as United States Senators ought to be.

Captain Young, late captain of the guard at the Carson mint, came down on last evening's V. & T. and went on to San Francisco. There are five watchmen who will remain at the mint until the first of July, but the appropriation for that fund falling a little short of enough to pay the whole force, Captain Young tendered his resignation.

HIS THREE WIVES.

They Were All In One Picture, but Did Not Stay There.

Allan Cunningham, in his "Lives of British Painters," tells a story of Copley, the father of Lord Chancellor Lyndhurst, which reveals what a portrait painter endures from the vanity and eccentricity of his sitters.

A certain man had himself, his wife and seven children painted by Copley in a family piece.

"It wants but one thing," said the man, on seeing the finished picture, "and that is the portrait of my first wife—this one is my second."

"But," replied the artist, "she is dead. What can I do? She must come in as an angel."

"Oh, no; no angels for me. She must come in as a woman."

The portrait was added, but several months elapsed before the man again called at Copley's studio, and when he did, a strange lady held on to his arm.

"I must have another sketch from your hand, Copley," said he. "An accident befell my second wife; this lady is my third, and she has come to have her likeness included in the family picture."

The painter introduced the likeness of wife No. 3, and the man expressed himself satisfied with the portraits of his three spouses. But the lady remonstrated. Never was such a thing heard of. Her predecessors must go. The artist painted them out; then the man disputed the price. Copley sued him, and his son, the future Lord Lyndhurst, signalized his call to the bar by gaining his father's cause.

He who would pass his declining years with honor and comfort should, when young, remember that he may one day become old and remember when he is old that he has been once young.—Addison.

THE BALKY HORSE.

A Simple Scheme of the Motorman That Made Him Go.

People near the New York entrance of the bridge saw a balky horse frustrated with delightful ease the other day by a man who openly confessed that he had no practical or theoretical knowledge of horsemanship. He was the motorman of a Fourth avenue car bound toward the terminal at the bridge. The horse was one of those angular, cockeyed, ungainly beasts that no amount of currying and feeding could make respectable.

It had stopped square in the middle of the track and had spread its feet apart as though its mind was made up to hold the street against the world. In a few minutes four trolley cars were backed up behind the cart and more were in sight down Center street. Motormen, conductors, truck drivers, assorted citizens and a policeman stood around and gave the usual advice. The driver kicked the horse and two or three men called to the policeman to stop him. Then they in turn made humane suggestions about starting a fire under the beast's stomach. A woman said that it would be easy enough for any one to coax him along with a lump of sugar.

The motorman of the fifth trolley car, which had by this time reached the end of the blocked line, walked up and surveyed the situation.

"Whose car is this?" he asked, pointing to the first car that had come up behind the wagon to which the balky horse was attached.

"It's mine," said another motorman, who was fingering a brass motor handle as though he would like to brain the horse with it.

The motorman from the rear hoisted the car's front fender and strapped it in place, folded against the dashboard.

"Now," he said to the motorman who had claimed the car, "go ahead, very easy." Then, turning to the disconsolately profane driver of the horse, he said, "Get up and take hold of the reins."

The car ran forward until the fender reached the tailboard of the wagon. "Now," said the self appointed master of ceremonies to his fellow motorman, "start up as fast as you durn please, and don't stop until you get to the bridge."

The car started. The wagon started. The horse in the shafts simply had to start. He slid and shoved back for a few inches and then broke into a helpless gallop. The car came banging along behind, giving the horse no chance to change his mind and balk again. The spectators cheered. The ingenious motorman looked the assembly over with a sneer.

"Say!" he said. "Say! Some people are dead slow, eh?"—New York Sun.

He Caught O'Connell.

Daniel O'Connell, the famous orator, when taking a ride in the neighborhood of his house, had occasion to ask an urchin to open a gate for him. The little fellow complied with much alacrity and looked up with such an honest pleasure at rendering the slight service that O'Connell, by way of saying something—anything—asked:

"What's your name, my boy?"

"Daniel O'Connell, sir," replied he stoutly.

"And who's your father?" demanded the astonished liberator.

"Daniel O'Connell, sir."

O'Connell muttered a word or two below his breath and then added aloud:

"When I see you again, I'll give you sixpence."

Riding briskly on, he soon forgot the incident and fell to thinking of graver matters, when, after traveling some miles, he found his path obstructed by some fallen timber, which a boy was stoutly endeavoring to remove. On looking more closely he discovered it to be the same boy he had met in the morning.

"What!" cried he. "How do you come to be here now?"

"You said, sir, the next time you seen me you'd give me sixpence," said the little fellow, wiping the perspiration from his brow.

I want to let the people who suffer from rheumatism and sciatica know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm relieved me after a number of other medicines and a doctor had failed. It is the best liniment I have ever known of.—J. A. DODGEN, Alpharetta, Ga. Thousands have been cured of rheumatism by this remedy. One application relieves the pain. For sale by Wm. Pinniger.

In the way of useful advertising novelties, F. C. Spindler has hit upon a good plan. He has received a shipment of lithographed fans, which are truly gems of the lithograper's art. The constant crowds at his store during the present hot spell bears proof to the fact that Fred knows how to prepare his ice creams and soda water in a way that wins favor with our Reno people.

It has been demonstrated repeatedly in every State in the Union and in many foreign countries that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a certain preventive and cure for croup. It has become the universal remedy for that disease. M. V. Fisher of Liberty, W. Va., only repeats what has been said around the globe when he writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for several years and always with perfect success. We believe that it is not only the best cough remedy, but that is a sure cure for croup." It has saved the lives of our children a number of times." This remedy is for sale by Wm. Pinniger.

LETTER FROM A FORMER RENOITE

S. C. Durkee Gives an Account of the South African Country.

Dr. Patterson has received a letter from S. C. Durkee, a former resident of Reno and a graduate of our State University. The letter is dated at Johannesburg, South Africa, where the writer is engaged in mining. The writer gives an interesting account of the country in which he is sojourning, in his letter, from which the JOURNAL makes the following extracts:

"Leaving Cape Town one experiences nearly the same feeling as when passing through the eastern part of Nevada during a sultry summer day. Sagebrush and barren hills comprise about the only scenery. The alkali is not present, however, and this alone gives this country a little advantage. Crossing the Vaal river one is immediately tackled by the custom house officials of the Transvaal, and I can testify that passengers are searched to perfection, so that contraband goods are seldom smuggled into the country.

"The Transvaal cannot be described as a desolate country; in fact, there are many beautiful places here. The Boers are as a class a very shiftless people, and do but little towards the development of the farming resources. They depend almost entirely upon the hospitality of the miners for their existence, and but for whom I doubt if the government could collect enough revenue to support it. The miners in consequence are oppressed to a considerable extent, and some of the smaller companies are unable to work their properties on account of the excessive taxation. Taken as a whole, however, I doubt if there is another place like this for the laboring class. Wages are high, and if one does not indulge in extravagance he can save a good deal of money. Luxuries are high, but ordinary living expenses are not above the average.

"Johannesburg contains over 60,000 white inhabitants, besides a large number of natives and East Indians, better known here as 'collies.' The city is built after the plan of most large towns, and there are some magnificent buildings here. The climate reminds one much of Nevada, with cool nights, which enables a person to sleep comfortably under blankets. There is considerable disease, especially fever, which I think is due more to sanitary conditions than climate. The altitude is 6,000 feet above sea level, but there is never any snow and seldom any ice.

"This is a great field for mining, but those who are not possessed of energy and industry had better remain away, for it is no place for idle or shiftless men.

"My brother Joe leaves Cape Town to-morrow for the States, via Australia. His health has been failing for some time, but with a year's vacation I believe he will be able to return and resume his work. He will doubtless visit Reno before he returns. I have wished many times that I could be back in Reno, but my duties here will not permit me to make the trip, and I can only say that I regret being away from my friends who reside in the beautiful riverside town."

Death of Mrs. Goe.

A notice of the death of Mrs. Annie A. Goe appeared in the San Francisco Examiner of a few days ago. Mrs. Goe moved to Reno from Virginia City and was a resident of this place for several years, while her sons, George and Charles and neice Miss Lillian Carwin, attended the University in its earlier days. She was President of the Woman's Relief Corps while here and an active member of the Episcopal church. Owing to her ill health the family deemed it best to move to San Francisco, thinking that the climate of the sea coast would be better for her, and for sometime she improved but has for years been a great sufferer. She was a woman of sterling qualities and lovely character, and though so frail bodily, her good deeds were many. She had a large circle of friends who will be pained to hear of her demise. Mrs. Goe died in San Francisco, last Friday, June 9th, at the age of 58 years. She leaves a husband and two sons, to whom, the many friends in Reno extend their sincere sympathy in this hour of sorrow.

Discovered by Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Disovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose, that she slept all night; and two bottles, has absolutey cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz.' Thus writes H. C. Hamnick & Co of Shelby N. C. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

Having a Great Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Manager Martin, of the Pierson drug store, informs us that he is having a great run on Chamberland's Cough Remedy. He sells five bottles of that medicine to one of any other kind, and it gives great satisfaction. In these days of la grippe there is nothing like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to stop the cough, heal up the sore throat and lungs and give relief in a very short time. The sales are growing, and all who try it are pleased with its prompt action.—South Chicago Daily Calumet For sale by Wm. Pinniger.

Dead and Dying in the Path of a Cyclone.

A terrific cyclone in Wisconsin destroyed New Richmond and hundreds of its inhabitants were slain. The debris of buildings destroyed caught fire and burned the bodies of the dead and wounded. The town contained about two thousand people, and the larger portion of the living are houseless and homeless. Relief trains with physicians and nurses were dispatched to relieve and care for the wounded and dying. The town was crowded with people from the country who had been attending a circus that was showing there. Cloud-bursts in Minnesota and in portions of Wisconsin are doing much damage.

Bright Future for Nevada.

O. C. Wallace, well known to all old time Nevadans, has been visiting friends in Carson for the last few days. He came down from there on last evening's V. & T. and took the train for San Francisco. Mr. Wallace appeared highly pleased with the mining and agricultural outlook for Nevada and expressed the hope and belief that copper culture and sugar beet mining would soon be added to the prominent and profitable industries of the State. He also declared his conviction that as an exporter of onions and other cereals Nevada would rank ahead of Alaska inside of the first decade of the outgoing century.

Free Hairdressing.

Some one said once that you could get almost anything for nothing in New York. This was brought practically to my notice a few days ago, says a writer in the New York Herald, as I was going up town on Third avenue. I passed a barber shop which displayed this strange sign:

"Ladies' Hairdressing Done Free Every Afternoon From 1 to 5 o'Clock."

As it was past 3 I was prompted by curiosity to go in and investigate. I found the "ladies'" hairdressing parlor a neat, cozy place, with a number of chairs standing in front of a long mirror, which covered one side of the room

I was fortunate enough to find a subject in the chair, who was having her hair dressed. She was a middled aged, thick handed, respectable looking woman, who was going to the inevitable ball. "Doing" her hair was a nice looking little woman, the head of the hairdressing establishment, and gathered around the chair were half a dozen white coated young men, watching the process of the work and occasionally giving assistance. And that is how the apprentice or student in hairdressing gains his experience, and the clever women who are in touch with the trick get their hair dressed for nothing.

The Prig and His Cane.

In the number of The Tatler for Oct. 6, 1709, it is observed that "a cane is part of the dress of a prig" (this, by the way, shows the erroneous notion prevalent that "priggishness" is a modern word) "and always worn upon a button, for fear he should be thought to have an occasion for it or be esteemed really and not genteelly a cripple."

In the number of Nov. 18 a rural squire in town is sketched who is the prototype of one of the pavement nuisances: "His arms naturally swang at an unreasonable distance from his sides, which, with the advantage of a cane that he brandished in a great variety of irregular motions, made it unsafe for any one to walk within several years of him."

And under date of Dec. 5 there is an amusing sketch of "a lively, fresh colored young man" who was among the applicants to Isaac Bickerstaff's court of censorship for license to use "canes, perspective glasses, snuffboxes, orange flower waters and the like ornaments of life." This young man had his cane hanging on his fifth button and was "an Oxford scholar who was just entered at the temple."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Took the Same.

Lawyer—You say that you were in the saloon at the time of the assault referred to in the complaint?

Witness—I was, sir.

Lawyer—Did you take cognizance of the barkeeper at the time?

Witness—I don't know what he called it, but I took what the rest did.—Boston Courier.
